

Without saying anything, they both started walking across the parking lot towards this car, and I turned and started following them. I looked around and saw this woman looking at us, and so I started limping real bad like I had a real bad leg. Plus I put my hand up to my face and turned away from her. I jumped in the back seat and blew it, yelling that it was stupid to park this far away from the car and have to walk all the way in that light. While that woman was just watching us the whole time. They said, "Hey, Butch, lighten up. It's over. Now you can relax." I jumped towards the front of the car and started yelling that it would never be over because that was kids that we just shot not Outlaws.

As a result of this shooting, Donald de la Sara, 17 years old, was killed by a blast from the shotgun. Crouch's description of the incident and the subsequent actions have all been substantiated by prior police investigation. Until Crouch's interview by ATF, this case was unsolved with no suspects.

Jackee Taylor (35:14):

Unsolved, no suspects, but now the word was out, and there was no going back. Here's former Cleveland Hell's Angels president, Matt Zanasca.

Matt Z. (35:27):

It was just devastating. From California to New York, people could not believe it. As far as his character coming into question, it was chiseled in granite. There was no way something like that. It was a total shock. Like the guillotine dropped on the word loyalty. Some people loved that man. They loved that man. They fought side by side. They were going to take a bullet, take a blade, whatever it took, and they knew he would do the same for them, and then you come up and say, "Well, he's going to roll," and this and that, and he's going to work for a government.

Matt Z. (36:12):

What could bring somebody to the point that they would roll like this for no reason at all? Out of the clear blue! He's going to get rid of his wife and his beautiful children? He's going to give all that up for what? For what? That is not logical. That is not... It doesn't... It doesn't... It doesn't square. Angels forever, forever angels. That's a culmination of everything you experience as a member, the ups, the downs, the happiness, the sadness, and then the betrayal.

Jackee Taylor (37:08):

This brings us to the moment we were scooped up in Florida, brought to the safe house in Tampa and then put into the witness protection program, but life in the program isn't anything like the movies. For me, it was just misery as we were dumped in the most unlikely of places. That's next time on Relative Unknown.

What good's a man Who's lost his soul Can't take a stand Mmm, when his flame's gone cold
